

---

along the western streams, including General Creek. The majority of the unstable streams in the basin are stage V, characterized by widening and deposition on the bed.